Analytische Psychologie e.V.

Invitation

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

we are happy to present to you a well-balanced program for our V. European Conference for Analytical Psychology.

Take a look inside, you will find a wide range of papers and workshops. Due to the pandemic we were forced to change the conference format and turn it into an online event. Luckily most of our European colleagues have agreed to adapt their presentations or workshops, so as to avoid a „digital overload“.

Despite the online format of the conference, you are cordially invited to come to Berlin in person. We are planning various on-site events such as joint viewings of the online contributions in small groups, concert visits, joint walks and, of course, visits to Berlin's summer beer gardens.

We hope we have piqued your interest. Take a look at the program and register!

With best regards,

Program committee

Regina Renn, Germany

Annette Berthold-Brecht, Germany

Shmuel Bernstein, Israel

Grazina Gudaite, Lithuania

Information about the DGAP

What is the DGAP?

The DGAP is the German society for Analytical Psychology, a non-profit and registered association which, as a professional society, brings together analytical and deep psychological adult and child and adolescent psychotherapists in Germany who work on the basis of CG Jung's analytical psychology .

Who can become a member?

Full members are analytical and deep psychological adult and child and adolescent psychotherapists who have completed their training at a training institute that is recognized by the DGAP. Non-Jungian psychotherapists who are interested in C. G. Jungs analytical psychology and its further developments and who are looking for a professional approach can become affiliated members.
